An undergraduate at OSU?
In the Columbus area for summer?
Interested in doing research that helps solve a critical problem?

Apply to become a CHEE Research Assistant!

Research assistants in Center for Higher Education Enterprise (CHEE) will have the opportunity to work on projects such as:
- College success of foster care youth alumni study
- College success of rural youth study
- College outreach and academic support programs study

As a CHEE Research Assistant, you will:
- Conduct literature reviews
- Assist with program evaluation
- Learn a diversity of research methods
- Work with a diverse staff

Submit Resume to chee@osu.edu by March 1

The Ohio State University's Center for Higher Education Enterprise (CHEE) strives to make change. Solve problems. Shift paradigms. Foster belonging. Encourage high achievement. Do good work. Align dreams with reality. For colleges and universities. For students and families. For communities and the nation. Our ambitious goal is to set aside what was and define what will be for generations of students to come. Our distinctive research and policy studies are focused on advancing higher education by removing obstacles and creating new opportunities. Our hope is that all students live up to their potential and go on to have meaningful impact on global society. By redefining student success, we’re changing lives.